To safeguard operational resilience during this ongoing situation, Triodos Investment Management continued with an intensified monitoring of all investments in the portfolio of the sub-funds. This means an increased focus on strong balance sheets, resilient cash flows, quality of management teams and solid governance in company and issuer selection.

Although the worldwide vaccination program is in progress and gradually more restrictions are being lifted, the development of the COVID-19 pandemic will continue to require attention in managing the fund moving forward. Local COVID-19 outbreaks may occur, and restrictions may be intensified. Thorough risk assessments of companies and issuers, and closely monitoring portfolios will support Triodos Investment Management’s investment decisions.

Report of the Management Company

The fund invests worldwide in equities and bonds of stock market listed companies and/or euro-denominated and British pound-denominated sovereign and sub-sovereign bonds that have a positive impact on the transition to a sustainable world. Investments in the fund address seven sustainable transition themes that contribute to solving global challenges posed by structural trends, such as ageing populations, resource scarcity, inequality and social exclusion. Each sub-fund has its own risk-return profile, applies a long-term strategy and has a concentrated portfolio.

As per June 2021, all Triodos SICAV I sub-funds have some of the highest possible scores across major European sustainable investment labels, including the German FNG-Siegel, the Nordic Swan Ecolabel, the Belgian Towards Sustainability label and the UK 3D Investing label. In addition, in April 2021 the funds were awarded the Label ISR, which has very rigorous standards and is supported by the French government.

Triodos Investment Management is also the proud winner of the 2020 Listed equities manager of the year award from Environment Finance.

Impact investment approach

The sub-funds distinguish themselves by their mandates and active dialogue with companies. The investment process starts with a long-term vision for the transition towards a more sustainable society. The fund invests in companies that make a positive contribution to the realization of seven sustainable transition themes:

- Sustainable Food and Agriculture;
- Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure;
- Renewable Resources;
- Circular Economy;
- Social Inclusion and Empowerment;
- Innovation for Sustainability; and
- Prosperous and Healthy People.

These transition themes are the cornerstone of our stock selection process, as each company and/or issuer in the portfolio must make a positive contribution to one or more of these themes through their commercial propositions. In addition, all investments must meet the strict Triodos group-wide Minimum Standards.

The fund invests for positive change but also aims to achieve a financial return in line with the broader market at acceptable risk levels, using disciplined investment criteria and a fully integrated investment and stewardship approach.

For a more extensive overview of the fund's positive impact in 2020 we refer to the annual impact report that was published in the first half of 2021. This report, as well as regular updates, can be found on www.triodos-im.com.

Macroeconomic developments

In the first half of 2021, the strength of the global economic rebound was remarkable. At first, this was mostly the result of the adaptability of households and businesses, which proved greater than anticipated. Economic activity was no longer hampered that much by the lockdown measures: people adjusted to the new 'working from home' reality, businesses increasingly moved online, and the inability to spend money on services was partially substituted by goods consumption – an indication of a resilient global manufacturing sector. Furthermore, rapid vaccination campaigns in most of the major advanced economies became key to the sharp boost in economic activity as the first half of the year progressed: rising vaccination rates allowed governments to loosen restrictions, in some cases faster than expected. With the loosening of restrictions, households gradually became able to spend on contact-intensive services again.

The strong rebound in the first half of the year was underpinned by continued fiscal support in the major advanced economies. Companies were being kept alive, jobs were retained through furlough schemes, and households received income support. The USD 1.9 trillion fiscal stimulus package in the US that got signed into law in March was the centrepiece of the global stimulus effort in the first half of the year, but extensions of emergency support schemes in Europe also proved to be vital for the fast economic rebound.

There was a clear divergence in the pace of the economic rebound between the major advanced economies. In the first quarter of the year, rapidly progressing vaccination campaigns in both the US and UK stood in sharp contrast with the slow vaccine rollouts in the eurozone. This meant that several eurozone countries were forced to extend or even tighten restrictions due to new COVID-19 infection waves, while the US and UK were able to (prepare to) significantly ease restrictions. However, the eurozone caught up with the UK and US in the second quarter and was also able to partially leave behind the lockdown. Japan was the outlier during the first half of the year, as it was trailing behind with respect to its vaccine rollout and was forced to reimplement restrictions in the second quarter due to new COVID-19 infection waves. As for emerging markets, China continued to be the motor of the global economic recovery (together with the US) in the first half of the year. Owing to the strict measures that were taken last year, China was the first major economy to get back to pre-pandemic levels of economic activity. However, the major emerging economies India and Brazil continued to struggle with severe COVID-19 infection waves throughout the first half of the year, which meant a setback for their economic recovery.

The hot topic in the first half of the year was inflation: investors increasingly feared that the excessive fiscal and monetary stimulus measures targeted at a consumption-driven recovery would lead to an economy running in overdrive, especially in the US. The concern was that this would result in a sustained pickup in inflation to above central bank targets and earlier-than-expected tightening of monetary policies, which would eradicate hopes for perpetually low interest rates and ongoing huge asset purchase programmes that over the past few years have inflated asset prices to unrealistically high levels. As a result, inflation expectations rose during the first quarter in both the US and Europe, with expectations in the US moving above the central bank target. Indeed, the reported US inflation numbers in the second quarter showed big year-on-year jumps. However, from the onset central banks kept stressing that this would likely be a transitory phenomenon, caused by temporary issues such as supply bottlenecks, base effects, and a temporary rise in demand caused by sizable fiscal stimulus packages.

As time moved on, investors increasingly started to rely on this narrative and the ability of central banks to keep inflation under control. Consequently, US Inflation expectations came down during the second quarter and eurozone inflation expectations stabilized. A more hawkish tone coming from the Federal Reserve after its June policy meeting did not affect this trust: the central bank signalled that it expected to raise interest rates twice in 2023 instead of in 2024, mostly due to economic conditions improving faster than expected. This indicated the start of a transition phase in US monetary policy, from ultra-accommodative to gradually less accommodative.

In the meantime, the other major central banks indicated that they would remain very accommodative in the foreseeable future. ECB president Lagarde indicated that any tightening of monetary policy would be pre-mature as it would threaten the recovery, and the Bank of England and Bank of Japan also stuck with their exceptionally loose policy approach. The Bank of Japan did scrap its pledge to buy an average of ¥ 6 trillion a year in equities and will now only intervene when the market falls, rather than steadily increase its holdings to spur investment and stimulate economic activity.

On the environmental front, US president Biden hosted a virtual climate summit in April, for which he invited 40 world leaders. This summit was part of Biden's promise to make the US a global climate leader. During the summit, several countries (including the US, Japan and South Korea) made new emissions pledges, but some large polluters, such as Australia and Mexico, failed to adopt new emission targets. Closely related, in a new report, the highly influential International Energy Agency (IEA) assessed that all emissions pledges to date would fall well short of reaching the goal of net zero emissions by 2050 and limiting global warming to 1.5 °C. The report also indicated that huge investments in low-carbon technologies would be required to make the necessary energy transformation happen, with total energy investments rising from the current level of USD 2 trillion per year to USD 5 trillion in 2030.

Overall, the strong global economic rebound in the first half of the year does not warrant too much optimism, as it has been driven by a pickup in consumption. This means that unfortunately, fiscal measures have so far mostly been targeted at a short-term, consumption-driven recovery, instead of focusing on the much-needed reset of our economic system, which should have been spurred by large-scale sustainable investments that focus on the longer term. In the meantime, our system has become more vulnerable through soaring public debt levels and expanding central bank balance sheets. The COVID-induced recession has also increased inequality, and the world has failed to steer away from its dependence on carbon-intensive industries. As a result, progress towards achieving several of the world's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) for 2030 has been further delayed.

Market developments

Global equity markets extended their rally during the first half of the year and reached new record-highs. Rapid vaccine rollouts and the related loosening of restrictions in the major advanced economies were reflected in strong macroeconomic data releases and company earnings reports. Together with continued monetary and fiscal support, this underpinned the upbeat investor sentiment throughout the first half of the year. In addition to that, central bankers made sure that the transitory inflation story became the market consensus, which reduced the inflation-related market volatility that could be observed in the first few months. Even the rather hawkish signal from the Federal Reserve in June, indicating monetary policy is poised to move from ultra-accommodative to less accommodative, did not significantly impact investor sentiment. Most investors still counted on the Federal Reserve to move very slowly and present its plans well in advance.

On a regional level, North American equity returns outpaced those realized in Europe and Japan in the first half of the year. While European countries were forced to hold on to severe restrictions in the first quarter of the year due to new COVID-19 infection waves, the US started to loosen measures. Meanwhile, US fiscal stimuli outstripped those of its European counterparts. This all contributed to the relative outperformance of North American equity markets. Japanese equity market returns fell behind those realized in Europe, as Japan was forced to reimplement restrictions in the second quarter of the year.

On a sector level, returns were mostly determined by the popularity of the reflation trade. This trade was based on the anticipation of a strong stimulus-fuelled global economic recovery, resulting in inflation moving gently higher in the medium term. During the first quarter of the year, the dominance of this trade meant investors rotated from the pandemic's winners (Big Tech) to sectors such as Energy and Financials, which usually benefit the most from an economic recovery and rising long-term interest rates. However, during the second quarter, the reflation trade lost some of its appeal, as most of the strong economic growth already seemed priced in. Information Technology and Consumer Staples made a comeback, also helped by the Federal Reserve signalling a shift in its ultra-loose monetary stance.

Both US and eurozone government bond yields moved significantly higher during the first quarter of the year, as investors reacted to rising inflation expectations and the anticipated strong economic recovery. The US government bond market stabilized in the second quarter, though, with 10-year yields coming down from their first-quarter highs. This was in line with the downward move in US inflation expectations and the (anticipated) moderation of the US economic growth momentum. Eurozone government bond yields continued to increase, while eurozone inflation expectations remained broadly stable. This reflected the improvement of eurozone economic growth prospects during the second quarter. In line with the government bond market, eurozone investment-grade corporate bond yields increased during the first half of the year. Investment-grade corporate bonds outperformed sovereigns, with credit spreads tightening in the second quarter. Oil prices moved significantly higher during the first half of the year, as the increase in global economic activity positively affected the demand for oil.

Triodos Euro Bond Impact Fund

Investment strategy

Global bond markets generated negative returns over the first half year of 2021. Bond yields rose as markets priced in higher expected growth and inflation, predominantly driven by the US fiscal stimulus measures and the reopening of economies. Worries about mounting price pressures increased, especially during the first quarter, as central banks remained committed to their accommodative policy measures. European yields got support from the ECB stepping up the pace of its bond purchases under the pandemic emergency purchase programme (PEPP). Government bonds of European peripheral countries outperformed the broader government bond market, as most country spreads tightened. Corporate bonds outperformed government bonds on the back of strong risk sentiment. The sub-fund remained defensively positioned, with a broadly neutral duration and an overweight position in high-quality bond issuers. The focus remained on increasing positive impact, by selecting bond issuers and impact bonds that have a clear fit with one of the seven Triodos sustainable transition themes.

Within Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure, three new issuers were added. The sub-fund invested in new green bonds from German public transport corporation Hamburger Hochbahn, Japanese precision motor manufacturer Nidec, and Portuguese grid operator Redes Energéticas Nacionais (REN).

Contributing to the same transition theme, the sub-fund has also increased its holdings in several selected issuers, including Japan Finance Organisation for Municipalities and Île-de-France, by investing in green bonds from these issuers.

Within Social Inclusion and Empowerment, the sub-fund has increased its holdings in La Banque Postale by investing in its inaugural social bond issue.

No names were removed from the portfolio.

Performance

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Euro Bond Impact Fund grew from EUR 352.7 million to EUR 371.3 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Dis) achieved a return of -2.4% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark declined 2.0%.

The defensive allocation of being underweight in corporates and overweight in government-related bonds compared to the benchmark contributed negatively to the relative performance of the sub-fund. The selection effect was negative within corporates, resulting from our focus on high-quality names. The curve carry and curve change effects were broadly neutral compared to the benchmark.

Triodos Global Equities Impact Fund

Investment strategy

Apart from Japan (almost flat in euro terms), most global stock markets powered ahead in the first half of the year and delivered double-digit returns. Especially big US information technology companies enjoyed a sharp revival in June. Markets reflected a V-shaped economic recovery based on continued fiscal and monetary stimulus measures and the opening up of economies on the back of a global vaccination roll-out. The resulting pick-up in inflationary expectations was tamed by repeated central bank statements that the pick up in inflation should be considered transitory. Consequently, global interest rates retreated in June and continued to give some valuation support to equity markets.

The following companies were removed from the portfolio: Valeo, Baxter International and Symrise.

We added three new names to the portfolio:

Check Point Software (CHKP), an Israeli technology company listed on the US stock market, was added within the Innovation for Sustainability theme. CHKP is a provider of security software and appliances for corporate networks and service providers worldwide. CHKP's products verify remote users, control access, and block viruses. Check Point also offers products that enable companies to set up virtual private networks (VPNs) for secure internal and remote communications, as well as products for bandwidth management, network performance, and availability applications.

Pearson, a British company providing education products and services, was added as part of the Social Inclusion and Empowerment theme. Pearson has refocused its business, hired a new CEO with in-depth digitalisation knowledge and we believe the company is undervalued and has strong growth potential, supported by a strong balance sheet. Pearson is focused on growing its business in virtual learning, higher education, English language learning, workforce skills and assessments & qualifications.

VF Corporation (VFC), a US apparel company, was added within the Prosperous & Healthy People theme. VFC has a brand portfolio that mainly caters to outdoor activities and an active lifestyle. The company owns 13 different brands in the outerwear, bags and backpacks, footwear, sportswear, and occupational apparel categories. VFC's largest brands are Vans (~40% of revenues), The North Face (25-30%), Timberland (15-20%) and Dickies (~10%). Recently, VFC acquired the Supreme streetwear brand, which had already been a regular collaborator with VF's Vans, The North Face and Timberland brands.

Performance

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Global Equities Impact Fund grew from EUR 977.5 million to EUR 1,149.3 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Dis) achieved a return of 9.3% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark rose 16.6%.

Energy, Financials, Real Estate and Communication Services all delivered returns ahead of the reference index. Utilities and Consumer Staples showed only single digit performance and hence were clearly lagging sectors. The remaining sectors performed more or less in line with the broader market.

As equity markets continued to move ahead, the allocation to cash contributed negatively. Being underweight in Financials and Energy also had a negative sector allocation effect. Overall, the allocation contribution was negative. The currency allocation contributed negatively mainly due to the depreciation of the Japanese yen. Stock selection also contributed negatively, especially in Information Technology, Industrials and Communication Services, while stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and Healthcare was positive.

Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund

Investment strategy

Sterling bond markets performed negatively during the first half year, as the reflation theme gathered momentum. Bond yields got lifted by higher expected growth and inflation, driven by the success of the COVID-19 vaccination programme in the UK. All market segments posted negative returns, with steeper curves hurting long-dated bonds most.

In the second quarter the fears of a strong rise in inflation abated somewhat, as Central Bankers worldwide insist that the rise in inflation is likely to be temporary, as a side effect of the strong bounce-back of the economy after the COVID-19 crisis. Inflation in the UK is expected to rise towards 3 percent this year, caused by temporary bottlenecks and distortions in the economy. But nevertheless, the UK benchmark yields moved gradually lower in recent weeks.

Apart from bond market developments, the best news came on the last day of June, when the UK Government published its Green Financing Framework. This framework details how the proceeds from Green Gilts will be used to help tackle climate change, biodiversity loss and other environmental challenges in the UK.

During the first half year bond positions in Procter & Gamble and Henkel were added to the fund. These corporate bonds contribute to our prosperous and healthy investment theme, as these firms show strong sustainable practices while their products contribute to the hygiene and convenience of numerous households.

In addition, the fund further enlarged its positions in corporate bonds that contribute to the sustainable transition themes.

No positions were removed during the first half year.

The duration of the sub-fund is slightly lower than that of the benchmark, at 5.3 years compared to 5.2 years for the benchmark.

Performance

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund grew from GBP 6.2 million to GBP 11.0 million. During this period, the sub-fund (KR-Cap) achieved a return of -2.3.0% (net of fees), while the benchmark declined 1.7%.

Before costs, the fund return was -1.7%, which constitutes a slight underperformance of 8 basis points relative to the benchmark by 8 basis points. The attribution analysis shows that both the allocation and selection effect were negative for the fund, caused by our overweight position in higher quality corporates and government-related bonds relative to the benchmark. But these negative effects were fully compensated by the curve positioning, as our underweight in longer maturities made positive contribution to the result.

Triodos Impact Mixed Fund (TIMF) – Defensive, Neutral, Offensive

Investment strategy

The sub-funds stuck to their defensive positioning in the first half of 2021, being underweight in equities and overweight in cash. The selection within the asset classes was cautious, as valuation is a key factor in our investment policy.

Equities

Performance Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund - Defensive increased from EUR 33.8 million to EUR 40.5 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Dis) yielded a return of 0.4% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded 2.4%.

The asset allocation effect was negative. This was caused by an underweight position in equities. Within equities the sector allocation effect was negative (no exposure to Energy and Financials), stock picking was negative (low exposure to US Big Tech) and also currencies had a negative impact (weaker Yen and stronger US dollar). Bonds were slightly behind the benchmark, as the higher credit quality did not pay off against the background of the highly 'risk on' market sentiment.

Performance Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Neutral

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund - Neutral increased from EUR 567.5 million to EUR 688.4 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Dis) yielded a return of 3.5% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded 7.0%.

The asset allocation effect was negative. This was caused by an underweight position in equities. Within equities the sector allocation effect was negative (no exposure to Energy and Financials), stock picking was negative (low exposure to US Big Tech) and also currencies had a negative impact (weaker Yen and stronger US dollar). Bonds were slightly behind the benchmark as the higher credit quality did not pay off against the background of this highly 'risk on' market sentiment.

Triodos Pioneer Impact Fund

Investment strategy

The first half of 2021 saw equity markets powering ahead on the back of continued economic and profit growth. Markets are reflecting a firm V-shaped economic and earnings recovery from the depths of the pandemic. This is driven by massive and continued fiscal and monetary stimulus measures, and further bolstered by the opening up of economies on the back of COVID-19 vaccinations being rolled out, notwithstanding the occasional scare caused by new strains of the virus emerging and the ensuing reintroduction of restrictions. While value and cyclical stocks did well in the first quarter of the year on the back of rising inflation expectations and long-term interest rates, in the second quarter growth stocks played catch-up as Central Banks alleviated investor concerns around inflation – stating that the rise in inflation was merely ‘transitory’.

During the first half of 2021, the fund established a position East Japan Railway, operator of the largest rail network in Japan, which fits within the Sustainable Mobility & Infrastructure theme. In Japan train journeys compete with domestic flights on cost, time and comfort, plus they have significantly lower emissions. East Japan Railway is a value stock that stands to benefit from increased travel as the Japanese economy reopens.

The fund also established a position in Japanese algae company Euglena within the Prosperous & Healthy People Theme. Euglena develops, cultivates and processes euglena and chlorella in its two business divisions: Health Care (health foods, beverages, confectionery and cosmetics containing euglena) and Energy & Environment (biofuel from euglena and cooking oil residuals). Euglena is the only company we know of that has a Chief Future Officer, a 15-year old girl who, along with five other teenage Future Summit Members, advises the Board of Directors on sustainability-related issues.

The fund’s holdings in obstructive sleep apnea and respiratory care company ResMed, radiotherapy company Ion Beam and medicine packaging manufacturer Gerresheimer were sold during the first half of the year.

Performance

In the first half of 2021, the total net assets of Triodos Pioneer Impact Fund increased from EUR 485.4 million to EUR 602.7 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Cap) yielded a return of 8.7% (net of fees), while the benchmark yielded 17.2%.

The performance relative to the reference index was driven by both a negative sector allocation effect, negative stock selection within sectors and a negative cash and currency effect. As value and cyclical stocks did well, the sector allocation effect was especially negative in Energy and Financials, while only the selection in Utilities contributed positively to the relative performance. Stock selection was most negative in the Financials, Consumer Discretionary and Technology sectors and most positive in Industrials and Health Care.

Outlook

Macroeconomic outlook

The near-term prospects for the global economy are rosy: the world finds itself in an exceptional economic recovery. As it stands, most advanced economies aim to have their entire populations vaccinated by the autumn of 2021. This implies a significant loosening of restrictions in the coming months, and consequently a sharp rebound in economic activity in the second half of the year. Triodos Investment Management expects that the combination of sizable government spending and a household spending spree, supported by pent-up demand and elevated savings rates, will cause the global economy to recover at record speed in comparison with previous post-recession periods. However, a global failure so far to address existential threats such as climate change and biodiversity loss likely means that the recovery will be consumption-driven, instead of driven by sustainable investments that would steer towards longer-term wellbeing.

If household savings rates are reduced faster than is usually the case after a recession, or if households tap into their accumulated excess savings, the consumption-driven recovery might even be stronger than currently foreseen. This is the most important upside risk to the Management Company's baseline scenario. The main downside risk still relates to possible new virus mutations that require reimplementing of restrictions after the summer. Another important downside risk is a sustained pickup in inflation. For now, Triodos Investment Management assesses that transitory inflation is the most likely scenario, but the COVID-induced deglobalisation movement leading to the relocation of supply chains and increased labour costs, poses a realistic more structural inflation threat. The same goes for the scenario in which the current integration of fiscal and monetary policy finally leads to money flowing into the real economy, instead of into (financial) assets.

Although the Federal Reserve recently indicated that it may raise interest rates in 2023 instead of 2024, Triodos Investment Management still does not expect the major central banks to break away from ultra-low policy interest rates any time soon. The Federal Reserve is likely to be the first major central bank that will start tapering, but Triodos Investment Management does not expect this to happen before early 2022. For now, Triodos Investment Management still assumes the major central banks will be able to keep inflation expectations firmly anchored.

Bond markets outlook

Although eurozone government bond yields have been rising this year due to the (anticipated) economic recovery and rising inflation expectations, eurozone government bonds are still expensive. The ECB seems committed to prevent any significant rise in borrowing costs for governments, meaning the low yield environment will likely continue for quite some time. As for eurozone corporate bonds, spreads are still narrow, as the accelerating economic recovery continues to positively affect risk sentiment. Triodos Investment Management expects this story to continue for some time, but nevertheless remains cautious and prefers high quality names. Financial difficulties may still arise further down the road when stimulus measures are being lifted. The threat of rising interest rates due to a sustained pickup in inflation also makes us confident in our cautious approach. Overall, Triodos Investment Management remains neutral in bonds.

Equity markets outlook

Triodos Investment Management exercises the same caution with equities. The broader market valuation is still unattractive. The US equity market continues to look expensive, both historically and relative to Japan and Europe. Due to its weak performance, Japan is now the cheapest developed market. Triodos Investment Management believes that margin pressures are building, and as the world economy gradually enters the next stage of the recovery, it will be leaving behind the period of sharply upward earnings revisions. Looking ahead, Triodos Investment Management believes negative earnings surprises are lurking, in which case lower equity prices and valuations would be entirely warranted. Rising inflation expectations resulting in sudden rises in bond yields continue to pose an additional risk to equity markets. Overall, Triodos Investment Management does not think that the current valuations properly reflect underlying fundamentals and assumes central banks cannot keep financial assets inflated forever. Triodos Investment Management therefore remains underweight in equities.

Sustainable investment opportunities

Triodos Investment Management certainly foresees opportunities in the sustainable investment landscape. The European Green Deal, the EU's roadmap for making its economy sustainable, will likely continue to gain momentum. The related development of a green taxonomy will enable investors to steer their investments towards more sustainable technologies and businesses, and the creation of an EU Green Bond Standard will deliver a uniform tool to assess green bonds. The recently implemented Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR), part of the EU's Green Deal, will also make investors more aware of financial risks related to sustainability, and will to some extent limit the options for greenwashing. On a global level, Triodos Investment Management is looking forward to the UN Climate Change Conference of the Parties (COP26) in Glasgow in November. The Management Company hopes that governments from around the world will agree to step up their efforts to tackle climate change.

Besides in Europe, the Management Company expects to continue to find sustainable investment opportunities in Japan, where corporate governance continues to improve due to top-down governance initiatives, while bottom up the SDGs are high on companies' agendas. In the US larger company segment of the market, however, it will remain difficult to find ample sustainable investment possibilities that meet Triodos Investment Management's minimum standards. In the smaller company space, there are still interesting pioneers – these come at lofty valuations, however. The US did re-join the Paris climate agreement in 2021, and the Climate Summit recently hosted by US President Joe Biden has shown Biden really wants to live up to his promise of making the US a global leader in the fight against climate change. A lot still needs to happen before this becomes reality, however.

Overall, the Management Company hopes that fiscal policies on a global scale will shift from providing COVID-19 emergency support measures to focusing on longer-term wellbeing, through targeted measures aimed at a more resilient and sustainable economic and societal system. Triodos Investment Management will continue to contribute to this envisioned transition by focussing on investments that support climate mitigation and adaptation and the fulfilment of the SDGs in the next ten years.

Note 1 - General

Triodos SICAV I is an open-ended investment company with a designated Management Company, incorporated under the laws of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg as a “Société d’Investissement à Capital Variable” (SICAV) in the form of a “société anonyme”. Triodos SICAV I is governed by the law of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg of August 10, 1915 on commercial companies, as amended, and by part I of the Law of December 17, 2010, as amended. Triodos SICAV I has appointed Triodos Investment Management as its authorised UCITS Management Company.

The fund (and each of its sub-funds) does not qualify as a “structured UCITS” within the meaning of article 36(1) of Commission Regulation (EU) No 583/2010 of July 1, 2010 implementing Directive 2009/65/EC.

Note 2 - Summary of significant accounting policies

The financial statements are prepared in accordance with Luxembourg regulations relating to investment funds using the following significant accounting policies.

a) Valuation of investments

The value of such assets is determined as follows:

The value of any cash on hand or on deposit, bills and demand notes and accounts receivable, prepaid expenses, cash dividends and interests declared or accrued as aforesaid and not yet received is deemed to be the full amount thereof, unless in any case the same is unlikely to be paid or received in full, in which case the value thereof is arrived at after making such discount as may be considered appropriate in such case to reflect the true value thereof.

The value of transferable securities, money market instruments and any other financial assets listed or dealt in on a regulated market, a stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market is based on the last available price on the relevant market which is normally the principal market for such assets.

In the event that any assets are not listed or dealt in on any regulated market, any stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market, or if, with respect to assets listed or dealt in on any such markets, the price as determined above is not representative of the fair market value of the relevant assets, the value of such assets will be based on reasonably foreseeable sales prices determined prudently and in good faith by the Board of Directors.

b) Net realised profit / (loss) on sales of investments

The net realised profit / (loss) on sales of investments is calculated on the basis of average cost of investments sold.

c) Foreign exchange translation

Triodos SICAV I maintains its accounting records in euros and its financial statements are expressed in this currency.

Assets and liabilities which are not denominated in euros are translated into euros at the rate of exchange prevailing in Luxembourg at applicable exchange rates at the end of the year.

Income and expenses in currencies other than euros are translated into euros at the applicable exchange rates prevailing on the transaction date. Resulting realised and unrealised foreign exchange gains or losses are included in the statement of operations and changes in net assets. The exchange rates used as at June 30, 2021:

1 EUR = 1.096187 CHF	1 EUR = 10.204889 NOK
1 EUR = 7.436229 DKK	1 EUR = 10.141965 SEK
1 EUR = 0.858446 GBP	1 EUR = 1.185900 USD
1 EUR = 131.623051 JPY

d) Income from investments

Interest on fixed income securities is accrued prorata temporis on each net asset calculation date and dividends are accrued on an ex-dividend basis.

e) Allocation of expenses

Each sub-fund shall pay for the general costs and expenses directly attributable to it. These fees are all part of the service fee.

General costs and expenses that cannot be attributed to a given sub-fund shall be allocated to the sub-funds, in proportion to their respective net assets. These fees are all part of the service fee.

Since the introduction of MIFID II on January 3, 2018, research costs have to be paid either by the fund, or by the investment manager. The choice was made to have the investment manager pay for the research costs. No research costs are allocated to the sub-funds.

f) Formation expenses

The costs and expenses of the formation of the fund have been borne by the fund and amortised over a period of five years. Expenses incurred in connection with the creation of any additional sub-fund shall be borne by the relevant sub-fund and, where applicable, will be written off in proportion to their net assets over a period not exceeding five years.

Note 3 - Determination of the net asset value of shares

The net asset value per share of each sub-fund is expressed in the reference currency of the relevant sub-fund and is calculated for each sub-fund by dividing the assets of such sub-fund less its liabilities by the number of shares in issue in respect of such sub-fund.

Note 4 - Fees

On January 1, 2021, Triodos SICAV I issued a revised prospectus. The major change consists of the revision of the fee structure of the fund.

4.1 Management fees

The annual management fee of each sub-fund is used to cover charges and expenses of the sub-fund to be paid to the Management Company, the investment manager (if any) and the distributors of each sub-fund in relation to share distribution (if applicable). The annual management fee is accrued daily out of the assets attributable to the relevant class of shares or sub-fund as a percentage of the net asset value.

* Management fees for Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund are applicable from February 1, 2021.

4.2 Service fees

The annual service fee of the sub-fund is also used to cover all charges and expenses to the depositary, the administrative agent, the registrar and transfer agent, the domiciliary agent and the paying agent. The annual service fee is accrued daily out of the assets attributable to the relevant class of shares or sub-fund as a percentage of the net asset value.

As of January 1, 2021, the share classes incur a fixed annual service fee to cover the expenses related to the administration and safekeeping of assets, and other ongoing operating and administrative expenses. The service fee is fixed in the sense that the Management Company bears the excess of any such expenses above the rate specified for each share class in the table below. Conversely, the Management Company is entitled to retain any amount by which the rate of these fees to be borne by the share classes, as set out in the table below, exceeds the actual expenses incurred by the relevant class of the relevant sub-fund.

The percentages of the service fees are as follows:

Service fee

Sub-fund	Fee R-class, Z-class and KR-class	Fee I-class, KI-class, I-II class and P class

Triodos Pioneer Impact Fund	0.20% p.a.	0.15% p.a.

4.3 Taxes

All payable taxes are charged separately to the fund, value added tax exempted. This mainly reverts to the Subscription taxes as mentioned in Note 1 and 6.

Note 5 - Distributions

In each class of shares within each sub-fund, the Board of Directors may issue capitalisation shares and distribution shares. Distribution shares may pay a dividend to their holders, whereas capitalisation shares capitalise their entire earnings.

The annual general meeting shall decide, on recommendation of the Board of Directors, what share of Triodos SICAV I's profits shall be distributed from each relevant class of shares. Consequently, the annual general meeting may approve, for each sub-fund or class of shares, the distribution of the net income and capital gains, realised or unrealised, after deduction of capital losses, realised or unrealised. The amounts corresponding to income attributable to the shares of a class for which it was decided not to pay a dividend will be capitalised in the assets of the class concerned.

Note 6 - Subscription tax

Triodos SICAV I is currently not liable to any Luxembourg tax on profits or income, nor are distributions paid by Triodos SICAV I liable to any Luxembourg withholding tax. Triodos SICAV I is, however, liable to an annual subscription tax in Luxembourg, which in principle amounts to 0.05% per annum of its net asset value, such tax being payable quarterly on the basis of the value of the aggregate net assets of the sub-funds at the end of the relevant calendar quarter. However, such rate may be reduced to 0.01% per annum of the net asset value for specific classes of shares or sub-funds which are restricted to institutional investors (Class-I, Class I-II, Class KI and Class-P shares). Furthermore, if some sub-funds invest in other Luxembourg UCIs which in turn are subject to the annual subscription tax, no annual subscription tax is payable by Triodos SICAV I on the portion of assets invested therein.
